By SENY LAQUEUR

THERE are no political parties in Egypt, but the Cairo government sponsors every now and then various societies for all kind of good purposes. Last week the Egyptian League for the Rights of the Jews was organized. Its secretary is one Germanus (sic) Luff and among its leaders are such Cairo worthies as Mr. Aminah Said, Mr. Abou el Aged, Shukri Mubarak and Mr. Bahar. The appeal published by this League is, in the beginning at least, sufficiently vague and dramatic to grip one's attention. "You and me, and every Arab, and all free men and women, without distinction of party, and race and religion, hundreds of millions are called to join a new progressive society in Cairo, which is to fight, the greatest danger, which has ever threatened mankind, your lives, and the lives of your children, and your grandchildren, today and tomorrow, and the day after tomorrow." In the North, and South, and West, and East, and so forth.

THOSE readers who do not know the League for the Rights of the Jews, which has been repeated four times in the past, are rewarded by the announcement that a League to fight Zionism has been founded. The sponsors acted probably wisely in not saying so at once, for their news comes as an anti-Zionist. Anti-Zionist propaganda has been founded in Cairo and the Egyptian intelligentsia has shown signs of fatigue and sales resistance in recent years. But then, a different line of approach: it is not concerned with Herzl or Ahad Ha'am, Sokolov or Weizmann, cultural or political Zionism, but goes back in the more distant past.

IT interprets Zionism in a somewhat more sweeping way, and its periodicals and pamphlets, several of which have already come to our knowledge, deal with three main issues: The first subject is the inherent right of the Jews which tells them that their task is to oppress the people, to exploit them and eventually to rule the world. The second subject is the "Talmud" (the bible of the Zionists) also teaches the Jews how to corrupt and debase the rest of mankind. The second subject is the "Talmud" (the bible of the Zionists) also teaches the Jews how to corrupt and debase the rest of mankind.

IT must be said to the credit of the Egyptian intelligentsia that by and large its members are already too sophisticated to be taken in by much crude propaganda, however, the impact of this propaganda, produced and expertly disseminated by both Arab and Communist sources, on the most illiterate section of the population in Egypt, and to an even larger degree, in the other Arab countries, is too great to mention. The League says in its manifesto that it wishes to stress that it is by no means directed against the Jews, only against the Zionists, October 6.

Dodgers Lead Yankees Two Games to One

NEW YORK, Saturday (UP) — The New York Yankees got up out of the hole today to beat the Dodgers 5-3 in the third game of the World Series at the Yankee Stadium. Their win left the Yankees trailing the Dodgers by two games to one, after the Dodgers won 13-4 yesterday. Gil Hodges, Brooklyn first baseman, was the hero of Friday's game when he drove in four runs with two doubles to lead the Dodgers to a 13-4 win. The Yankees led 4-0 going into the bottom half of the second, with Yogi Berra's grand slam home providing the lion's share of the run-making. Yogi Berra had it up on a three-run home by Duke Snider and some sloppy Yankee fielding. After the Yankees' 4-0 lead, the Dodgers were never headed. The winning pitcher was Bennett and the loser Morgan.

FRANCE DENIES PACT WITH ISRAEL

PARIS, Saturday (UP) — A Foreign Ministry spokesman today categorically denied French reports that France and Israel signed a military agreement.

Britain, France Agreeing To Parley with Egypt

Accord Prior to Council Meet

By GEORGE LICHTHEIM, Jerusalem Post Correspondent

LONDON, Saturday. — Britain and France have agreed to try and settle the Suez issue with Egypt, while the U.N. Security Council considers the problem, it was reliably learned here.

The decision was apparently reached following discussions between the U.S. Secretary of State, Mr. John Foster Dulles, the British Foreign Secretary, Mr. Selwyn Lloyd, and the French Foreign Minister, Mr. Christian Pineau, before the Council debate opened yesterday and after the Belgian Premier, Mr. Paul Henri Spaak, had privately seen the Egyptian Foreign Minister, Dr. Mahmoud Fawzi, and been given assurances that Egypt was willing to negotiate.

This explains why Mr. Lloyd was able to inform the Council that Britain favours a secret session as soon as the various countries have given their views. Tuesday's session will be unprecedented for the Security Council, which has hitherto never closed its doors except to discuss internal business.

The Anglo-French agreement to this procedure is regarded here as political realism, for the sponsors acted probably wisely in not saying so at once, for their news comes as an anti-Zionist. Anti-Zionist propaganda has been founded in Cairo and the Egyptian intelligentsia has shown signs of fatigue and sales resistance in recent years. But then, a different line of approach: it is not concerned with Herzl or Ahad Ha'am, Sokolov or Weizmann, cultural or political Zionism, but goes back in the more distant past.

U.N. Secretary-General, Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld, comes in for a picture as a mediator who cannot publicly take sides, but is privately urging the desirability of letting the seven Foreign Ministers now in New York conduct private talks.

In effect, therefore, the Council's private session is intended to make room for the Foreign Ministers, including of course Mr. Dmitri Shepilov of Russia. The Council is thus suspending its jurisdiction and taking advantage of the rare presence of so many Foreign Ministers, to say nothing of Mr. Krishna Menon, the Indian Minister without Portfolio.

The developments have added to the bewilderment already felt in Conservative quarters here and have given rise to some serious speculation as to the picture of Mr. Dulles, who is chiefly addressed to Mr. Dulles.

Officially, of course, it cannot be admitted that Britain and France have now been driven into private negotiations with Egypt in which India will play a key part. Reticence at this development is not surprising, for the Foreign Ministers, at next week's Conference, when Premier Sir Anthony Eden will be called upon to defend his record.

SCUA Establishes 7-Man Executive

LONDON, Saturday (UPI) — The 12-nation Council of the Suez Canal Users Association (SCUA) has today elected its first executive group. It is hoped to meet in here yesterday.

The Council established an executive group which will continue next week on the practical business of the association, the choice of a headquarters site and an administrator, immediate and long-term financial and operational shipping questions.

In the hope that some of all of the three governments which sent observers to the recent council meeting, the U.S., Britain, and France, may join SCUA, the Council selected six out of the seven members of the executive group. It is hoped to meet in here yesterday.

Suez Canal Traffic Back to Normal

PORT SAID, Saturday (Reuters) — Foreign traffic returned to normal yesterday following delays by ships grounding on Monday and Tuesday.

The two-convoy system was re-established from Port Said and Thursday's six-hour delay for the convoys was reduced to two hours.

Twenty-five ships from Port Said and 30 from Suez went through the Canal yesterday.

The pilot situation has been considerably eased by the addition of 24 foreign pilots, including eight Russians, who have passed the Canal since Monday.

Four West German Ministers to Quit

KASSEL, West Germany, Saturday (Reuters) — Four ministers from the Free People's Party today said they were offering their resignations to clear the way for a long-planned cabinet reorganization.

They announced the decision at the congress of the small party, which split from the Free Democrats when the latter went into opposition early this year.

At that time the four Free Democrats ministers joined the Free People's Party, which supports Chancellor Adenauer.

U.K., France Press For Int'l Control

NEW YORK, Saturday. — Secret negotiations on the Suez dispute, with the U.S. Secretary of State, Mr. John Foster Dulles, the British Foreign Secretary, Mr. Selwyn Lloyd, and the French Foreign Minister, Mr. Christian Pineau, before the Council debate opened yesterday and after the Belgian Premier, Mr. Paul Henri Spaak, had privately seen the Egyptian Foreign Minister, Dr. Mahmoud Fawzi, and been given assurances that Egypt was willing to negotiate.

Talks to Spread Titoism Begin In Belgrade

By JOHN KELLY, Jerusalem Post Correspondent

BEGRAD, Saturday (Reuters) — Yugoslav leaders today began talks with Italian Communist Party delegates on an open basis in what is believed to be a big campaign to spread Titoism throughout the Communist world.

The nine Italians led by the party's Deputy Secretary-General, Mr. Luigi Longo, arrived today for a 10-day visit. Party delegations from Hungary, Rumania, and France are expected here for similar talks soon.

Mr. Longo said, "Our object is to study the experience of the Yugoslav party in the building of socialism." The Rato-Yugoslav discussions will cover economic, sociological, and cultural, as well as political trends.

President Tito who arrived here yesterday after week-long secret talks in the Crimea with Soviet party leaders, did not take part in today's talks. The head of the Yugoslav side was Mr. Vorkapich-Tempo, a Vice-President of Yugoslavia.

Observers here saw the forthcoming Hungarian visit as representing a victory for Marshal Tito, as presumably the Russians had to accept his determination to go ahead with his independent talks with other parties.

On the other hand, it appeared that the Yugoslav side had given up their tactic of support for Mr. Imre Nagy, the Hungarian "Titoist" ex-Premier who is now in retirement, and accepted Mr. Kadar as Secretary-General. Although nothing has been publicly discussed here about the results of the Crimea talks, observers felt that they had given up their tactic of support for Mr. Imre Nagy, the Hungarian "Titoist" ex-Premier who is now in retirement, and accepted Mr. Kadar as Secretary-General.

With everyone willing to negotiate, the big powers could be as useful parties as allowing Israel to test her position at this stage.

The idea of the postponement of a decision of Israel's request for a hearing, which temporarily relieves the Council from an embarrassing situation as there is no precedent for a refusal, is credited to Mr. Harold Bealey, who has been known for his pro-Arab attitude in the British Foreign Office, and who accompanied Mr. Lloyd from London.

Mr. Lloyd, who gave Israel assurances that he would fully support the Canal shipping through the Canal, mentioned it in an interview with the press.

However, if the Egyptian Foreign Minister attacks Israel at Monday's public session, the Israelis are expected to respect their technical competence, which is the only basis for a hearing of their case.

French to Tighten Algiers Security

ALGERS, Saturday (Reuters) — The French authorities announced today a series of special security measures to guard against the possibility of a terrorist attack in this city of 500,000.

Under the measures which come into effect on Monday, all persons carrying weapons will be searched and the identity of all people passing parcels will be checked.

In addition, a speed limit of 50 kms. an hour will be imposed on all cars in Algiers, and vehicles must carry special permits to enter the city district they come from.

The measures follow an increased wave of bomb and gun attacks in Algiers. Sixty-five persons, one of whom died, were wounded in two-time-bomb explosions in crowded areas in the centre of Algiers last week-end.

France's Minister Resident in Algeria, M. Robert Lagarde, told the people of Algiers that the necessary measures had been taken to protect them against terrorist attacks.

The Minister, who returned to Algiers on Thursday after reporting to the French Government, said the insurgents would concentrate on Algiers in October, because it was the seat of foreign consulates and the headquarters of journalists.

Jerusalem Spy Trial Concluded

Jerusalem District Court President, Judge Benjamin Halevi, will pass judgment on Thursday in the case of the American women charged with spying on Israel.

The three-day trial was concluded on Friday.

Photographs of the main participants in the trial, including the young woman, Phyllis Katter, who is attending the trial, were taken by the Jerusalem Press photographer, Mr. Werner Braun.

The court's order banning any revelation of her identity remained in force in Israel, despite the fact that her name was revealed in an account of the case published in "The New York Times" yesterday.

A dispatch from "The Times" correspondent stated that her identity was being kept secret in Israel.

41 Israelis Killed Since Cease-Fire

The latest Jordan attack has brought the number of Israeli losses on the Jordan border within the last six months to 41 dead and 65 wounded; most suffered after the cease-fire of April 30, the Foreign Ministry spokesman stated on Friday.

The spokesman added that, according to the police investigation, the murder on the Jordan road was carried out by an organized and trained group coming from Jordan territory. The investigators have detected incoming and outgoing tracks of seven to nine persons, leaving from the site of the incident in the Jordan border. The police investigators were accompanied by a member of the Israel Defense Forces, a 200-metre long ridge overlooking the road. Over one hundred empty cartridges were found at the site, indicating that the assailants used automatic and rifle fire.

The attackers took the weapons and documents of the victims, but did not search their other belongings. This proves the military character of the attack, the spokesman said.

Poznan Accused May Not Be Tried

POZNAN, Saturday (Reuters) — The great majority of the 134 men now in custody in connection with the Poznan riots of June 28 may not be brought to trial, according to legal sources here today.

These sources said that lawyers have been told that some scheduled to stand trial on and after October 15 will take place on their own, and no further time-table is being proceeded with for the trial.

The Chief Prosecutor in the Poznan District Court, Mr. Jozef Kozminski, said that the trial would not begin until after the end of the year.

Egyptians Send 3rd Arms Load To Jordanians

Three shipments of arms arrived in Jordan from Egypt during the past week, according to "Al Ahrar," the Cairo daily.

A week ago, reports from Jordan stated that the first Egyptian arms and equipment for the Jordan National Guard had arrived in Jordan by air.

Meanwhile, "Al-Difa," the Old City daily, reported that King Hussein had been flooded with telegrams from all over Jordan expressing gratitude to the King for having adopted a "tough" attitude towards Iraq in refusing to accept armistice conditions strings attached to it.

Last night, the King took a second step to bring Jordan closer to Egypt when he sent Foreign Minister, Amal Abdul Hadi, on a tour of the Syrian, Saudi Arabian and Egyptian capitals. According to the official announcement reported by ANA, Abdul Hadi will begin his trip with a visit to Damascus today.

According to Radio Ramallah last night, the Jordan Foreign Minister is going to ask Egypt and her allies for subsidies for the Jordan National Guard.

Commenting editorially on the Iraqi decision to refuse arms to Jordan except on her own terms, "Falastin," the Old City daily, said that the time has come when we should stop playing hide and seek. Either we are all Arabs united by a common interest in the defence of our country, or we should have relations with one another open and for all.

Israel Rejects MAC Session

The Foreign Ministry on Friday turned down a proposal by the U.N. Truce Supervision Organization for an emergency meeting of the Jordan-Israel Mixed Armistice Commission to deal with Thursday's ambush on the Sdom road.

The proposal was submitted to the Foreign Ministry by General ELM. Burns, the Chief of Staff of the U.N.T.S.O.

Announcing Israel's rejection of the suggestion, the Ministry spokesman said that the M.A.C. Chairman, Mr. Hagan, had refused to attend the meeting of the Commission indicated clearly in the view of the U.N. Truce Supervision Organization for an emergency meeting of the Jordan-Israel Mixed Armistice Commission to deal with Thursday's ambush on the Sdom road.

Meanwhile, the U.N.T.S.O. referring to criticism in the local press because the Chairman of the M.A.C. accepted the paragraph of the Jordanian resolution describing the murder of Israelis by Jordanians, which had preceded this action, as constituting provocation. Under these circumstances Israel has nothing to add to its previously stated view, the spokesman concluded.

Egypt Sends Arms To Sudan Army

CAIRO, Saturday (Reuters) — Egypt has sent a shipment of arms, field and anti-aircraft guns, machine-guns, rifles and ammunition to the Sudan, the Egyptian Army announced here Thursday night.

The announcement, described as "gift," was made by the Egyptian military mission under Brigadier Attaya Ahmed Ali of the Army Engineering Corps.

Jordanians Cancel All Consuls' Passes

The Jordanian authorities have cancelled all passes for consuls to cross into the Old City for all foreign consuls, it was learned last night in Jerusalem. The ban takes effect this morning.

In the future, each consul will have to apply in writing for each individual trip to Jordan. Until now, they were allowed without any formalities.

Last week the passes of Mr. S.E.M.G.W. Holsavain, the Netherlands Minister, and Mr. Marcus Agag, the Ethiopian Consul-General, were cancelled.

Mr. Agag, who formerly sent the Ethiopian Consulate through Jordan, is now sending it through Athens.

"Palastin," the Old City daily, wrote on Friday that the status of the Netherlands Minister and the Ethiopian Consul-General in Jerusalem is a peculiar one and differs from that of other diplomats.

While in general consuls in Jerusalem do not submit credentials either to Jordan or to Israel, these two have submitted their credentials to Israel.

Two Victims Laid to Rest

Two of the five persons killed in Thursday's ambush on the Sdom-Bereshba road were buried on Friday at the Shaal Cemetery in Tel Aviv.

The funerals of Ephraim Waldman, a foreman at the Potash Works, and of Yehoshua Ben-David, a 25-year-old driver, left the Municipal Hospital in Tel Aviv at 2 p.m. The Mayors of Beerseba, Givatayim and Herzliya, the Chairman of the Tamara Local Council and senior officials of Solel Boneh were among the mourners.

"They were soldiers without uniforms who died for their country," Mayor David Tuvyahu of Beerseba, said at the graveside.

Waldman's eldest son, Yitzhak, said biddad over his father's grave. He was buried only last month and his father was coming home for the delayed celebration when he was killed. Waldman, 48, came to Israel in 1954 from Poland. He was an employee of Solel Boneh for more than 20 years. During World War II, he worked on the construction of the Tel Aviv Municipal Council and senior officials of Solel Boneh were among the mourners.

Arabs to Pay Dearly For Attacks, Meir Says

By JOHN KELLY, Jerusalem Post Correspondent

Jerusalem Post Reporter

"If the U.N. has not the strength to force the Arabs to keep the peace, we will have no other choice than to see to it that every one who raises a hand against us will pay dearly for his action," Mrs. Golda Meir, the Foreign Minister, said yesterday in Jerusalem.

She was addressing more than 1,000 persons who crowded into the Sports Hall of the partially completed Histadrut Cultural building where the Working Mothers Organization were holding their annual bazaar.

Mrs. Meir stressed that Israel must be accepted by all nations of the world, not only the Arabs as a nation among nations and with equal rights. These included developing the country, absorbing immigrants, but especially the fact that the "life of a Jew was just as valuable as the life of any other person."

Never during Israel's existence had there been an instance when she had sent a force across the border without having a just cause for this action. "We can deprive us of the right to operate across the border," she said, adding that "crossing the border was not the prerogative of any one side."

Speaking of the U.N. Truce Supervision Organization, she said that in its announcements following investigations she "murderer and the murderer."

Avraham Walter, the driver who courageously backed his car from the scene of the attack by Jordanians on the Sdom-Bereshba highway on Thursday, is interviewed at the Beersheba police station.

Egypt Sends Arms To Sudan Army

CAIRO, Saturday (Reuters) — Egypt has sent a shipment of arms, field and anti-aircraft guns, machine-guns, rifles and ammunition to the Sudan, the Egyptian Army announced here Thursday night.

The announcement, described as "gift," was made by the Egyptian military mission under Brigadier Attaya Ahmed Ali of the Army Engineering Corps.

Jordanians Cancel All Consuls' Passes

The Jordanian authorities have cancelled all passes for consuls to cross into the Old City for all foreign consuls, it was learned last night in Jerusalem. The ban takes effect this morning.

In the future, each consul will have to apply in writing for each individual trip to Jordan. Until now, they were allowed without any formalities.

Last week the passes of Mr. S.E.M.G.W. Holsavain, the Netherlands Minister, and Mr. Marcus Agag, the Ethiopian Consul-General, were cancelled.

Mr. Agag, who formerly sent the Ethiopian Consulate through Jordan, is now sending it through Athens.

"Palastin," the Old City daily, wrote on Friday that the status of the Netherlands Minister and the Ethiopian Consul-General in Jerusalem is a peculiar one and differs from that of other diplomats.

While in general consuls in Jerusalem do not submit credentials either to Jordan or to Israel, these two have submitted their credentials to Israel.

Two Victims Laid to Rest

Two of the five persons killed in Thursday's ambush on the Sdom-Bereshba road were buried on Friday at the Shaal Cemetery in Tel Aviv.

The funerals of Ephraim Waldman, a foreman at the Potash Works, and of Yehoshua Ben-David, a 25-year-old driver, left the Municipal Hospital in Tel Aviv at 2 p.m. The Mayors of Beerseba, Givatayim and Herzliya, the Chairman of the Tamara Local Council and senior officials of Solel Boneh were among the mourners.

"They were soldiers without uniforms who died for their country," Mayor David Tuvyahu of Beerseba, said at the graveside.

Waldman's eldest son, Yitzhak, said biddad over his father's grave. He was buried only last month and his father was coming home for the delayed celebration when he was killed. Waldman, 48, came to Israel in 1954 from Poland. He was an employee of Solel Boneh for more than 20 years. During World War II, he worked on the construction of the Tel Aviv Municipal Council and senior officials of Solel Boneh were among the mourners.

Gov't Spurs Export Of Olive Oil

The Government has promised to buy up all unsold olive oil at the guaranteed price of IL1.100 a ton. Mr. A. Halevy, Food Controller in the Ministry of Commerce and Industry, said at a meeting with olive growers and oil-press owners from Galilee and the Little Triangle on Friday.

This step was taken, Mr. Halevy said, as a means of encouraging the production of olive oil for export, which is expected to yield $1m. this year.

The free market price of olive oil is likely to drop considerably, because of the expected bumper crop and the decision of the oil planned for the end of this year.

The promised price of IL1.000 is IL200 above that recently laid down by the Government and very much higher than the price at which rationed oil is sold today.

As a further means to step up olive oil exports, exporters are to be granted loans enabling them to purchase the oil and to process it for export. Four new olive presses are also to be established this year with the help of loans from the Development Budget. They will be equipped with centrifugal presses and other modern machinery from France and Italy to assure the production of high-grade oil which can be exported without further purification.

Two of the new olive presses are being built by Arabs, one in the Triangle and one in Galilee. The other two are to be set up by "Mata'ei Ha'otzma" in Safad and the other by the "Ets Haayotz" Factory at Kiryat Aryeh near Petah Tikva.

In co-operation with the U.S. Operations Mission, the Ministry of Commerce and Industry has established in Galilee an Institute for Olive Oil Research designed to raise the standard of local production. The Institute will be at the disposal of all olive oil producers.

LAW REPORT

The Jerusalem Post
October 7, 1956

In the Supreme Court Sitting As Court of Criminal Appeals

Before Justices Gossens, Sussman and Witkon.
Farouk Youssef Shafa, Appellant, v. The Attorney General, Respondent (C.A. 124/56).
Reduced Sentence For Giving Information To Enemy

The Supreme Court allowed an appeal against the severity of the sentence imposed on the appellant by the Haifa District Court on June 23, 1956 (C.C. 123/56).

Farouk Shafa, a young Arab, was arrested by the police on the charge of giving information to the enemy. He was charged with having, on December 12, 1955, for a purpose prejudicial to the security of the State, communicated information calculated to be directly or indirectly useful to the enemy.

The Haifa District Court (Judge Zohar) did not believe the story that Shafa had been constrained to give the information by the use of force and under threat of death, but held that even if the story were true, Farouk could not claim the exemption from liability granted by section 17 of the Criminal Code Ordinance to persons who are compelled to do an act "by threats which at the time of doing it reasonably cause the apprehension that instant death or grievous harm to that person will otherwise be the consequence of the act he is doing in the situation by which he became subject to the constraint."

Mr. Ben-Dor appeared for the appellant, Mr. G. Bach, Assistant to the State Attorney, for the Respondent.

The Supreme Court held that the District Court had taken account of all the mitigating circumstances — the appellant's tender age, the fact that he had been led astray by his companion, and the fact that he had expressed regret for his actions — but had come to the conclusion that in view of the severity of the appellant's offence there was no reason for being overly lenient.

In these circumstances, held the Supreme Court, they would not have interfered with the sentence if it were not for the fact that Mr. Bach, in contradistinction to the Attorney General's representative in the court of lower instance — was of the opinion that in the present case there were grounds for mitigating the sentence in view of the appellant's youth and the fact that the information he had given was not of any great importance.

The sentence was reduced from three to two years' imprisonment.

Judgment given on September 18, 1956.

Stollman Forest Near Jerusalem

The first Keren Kayemet Forest in the immediate neighbourhood of Jerusalem was planted near Beit Hakerem last Thursday. It is named the Stollman Forest after the Stollman family of Detroit who donated $50,000 for the first 30,000 trees.

The forest will eventually contain 500,000 trees and extend over 2,000 dunams from Beit Hakerem to the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway.

Mr. and Mrs. Stollman were present at the ceremony and the planting of the trees. The unveiling of a plaque commemorating the event.

Chou Thinks Eden 'Lost His Temper'

PEKING, Saturday (Reuter). — Prime Minister Chou En-lai told British journalists today that the Chinese Premier, Sir Anthony Eden, had "lost his temper" over the Suez crisis.

Mr. Chou spoke through an interpreter for most of the 30-minute interview, but broke into English to say, "I know him at Geneva. Probably he lost his temper."

He said Mr. Anthony had probably been angered by action in the matter of her country's rights. The British Premier should have kept in mind that in the past the British Empire had made a great deal of money and the people of Egypt had suffered, he added.

Mr. Chou said China felt the U.N. Security Council could be a way of settling the Suez dispute. India had already suggested a possible way, and if this were followed up, the matter with the sovereignty of Egypt being recognized and at the same time the freedom of Canal navigation being assured.

The Chinese Premier declared that to use threats as a substitute for peaceful settlement or to attempt to overthrow the Egyptian Government as a substitute for international co-operation was not only dangerous, but it would also make the countries which did it more and more isolated.

The sentence was reduced from three to two years' imprisonment.

BLACKPOOL, Saturday (Reuter). — Labour's annual conference ended in Blackpool yesterday with most delegates convinced that the party's talks have closed recent breaches between left and right and paved the way for a united fight at the general election.

Apert from Mr. Bevan's victory over right-winger George Brown in the fight for the leadership, left-wingers for the first time made a clean sweep by capturing all seven seats reserved for Local Labour Party nominees on the 26-member National Executive, the movement's governing committee. Two years ago barely half these seven seats were held by right-wingers.

But many delegates say the Bevan victory and the success of his followers do not reflect a sudden swing leftwards.

Mr. Bevan himself, in a post-interview, summed up the position thus: "It would in some respects be untrue to say the Labour Party has swung to the left. It would be more true to say the swing to the left, which has been going on for some years in the Labour Party, has now found expression in the party conference."

"The leadership of the party will have to adjust itself to the new situation and the consequences will soon be felt in international as well as domestic affairs."

New 'Dynamic' Policy

Mr. Bevan added, "The rank and file has found expression at the higher levels and it is obvious that there will be far greater unity than has existed for a number of years."

Mr. Gaitskell also stressed the theme of unity both in domestic and in international politics, and in the closing of the conference's results:

"A good spirit has been shown in all the debates and the conference on several occasions indicated its deep anxiety for party unity and to have done with dissension and disputes. There was a feeling of great confidence in the party."

On its last day the conference yesterday rejected a demand that all basic industries should be nationalized so as to speed the development of automation. But the 15,000 delegates forced the hand of their leaders by making them accept a motion calling for a policy statement on automation within the next six months.

Mr. Richard Crossman, speaking for the party leadership, foreshadowed a new Labour policy next year based on the idea of "dynamic" policy.

Schools Must Take Afflicted Children

All polio afflicted children must be accepted in the elementary schools, Dr. M. Avior, Director General of the Ministry of Education, stated in a circular letter sent to the principals of elementary schools.

The children afflicted in the polio epidemic of 1950-51 are now of compulsory school age and every effort should be made to absorb them into classroom life, the circular states. It also states that principals should make the necessary technical arrangements such as providing a well situated seat or transferring the child to a classroom on the first floor, if necessary, and the teacher should create a proper understanding in the classroom towards the afflicted child. Dr. Avior wrote.

Beekman Abductor Must Quit Belgium

JERUSALEM Post Correspondent AMSTERDAM (By Air Wire). — Mrs. G. M. Langedijk-van Moort, the former foster mother of the Dutch Jewish war orphan Annette Beekman — who is still "missing" — will not be extradited to Holland, the Belgian Ministry of Justice announced last week.

Mrs. Langedijk was arrested on August 15 in Belgium, where she had been hiding since October 23, 1955. The Netherlands Government had requested her extradition. But the Belgian announcement, while saying Mrs. Langedijk will be required to leave Belgium, states she is free to decide where she wishes to go. In Holland she must serve a three-month sentence.

Although Mrs. Langedijk still keeps Annette Beekman hidden in Belgium, she was actually convicted of having abducted her to that country in February, 1949. The Belgian Minister of Justice has now concurred with this view.

STAMPs — The Egyptian Post Office has announced the nationalization of the Suez Canal was sold out within nine days of being brought out on September 28.

Cabinet to Approve B-G's Statement at Knesset Opening

Jerusalem Post Knesset Reporter

The Knesset's winter session is scheduled to open at 4 p.m. tomorrow with a statement by the Prime Minister on political, security and economic problems. This will be followed by a debate which will occupy the major part of the Knesset's first week, if not all of it.

At today's Cabinet meeting, the Government is expected to discuss the content of Mr. Ben-Gurion's Knesset speech.

The Knesset is returning from a 10-week recess, which began on July 28. Among the draft laws on the agenda which are of more than routine interest is one which increases the penalty for espionage and treason. Also on the agenda is the Basic Law on the Knesset, the first reading of which began in July.

No Programme

However, there is no comprehensive legislative programme for the coming session. According to one Knesset source, the Government has on many occasions been asked to furnish such a programme, but has never done so.

The priority of draft laws sent by the Government to the Knesset is determined to a large extent by the pressure brought by a Minister in the Cabinet in favour of action on a particular bill.

There are, of course, the Basic Principles of the Government, but that is a four-year programme and has little bearing on immediate legislative activity.

Although the Knesset itself has been in recess, there has been some committee activity. The Finance Committee was the busiest, with 10 sessions.

Opposition Majority

Last Monday's meeting of the Finance Committee was outstanding by reason of the fact that the opposition (two General Zionists and a Herut member) out-voted the coalition (Chamber of Commerce and the Jewish Agency).

On the question of an increase in electricity rates, such an opposition victory in the Finance Committee was unprecedented.

On the agenda of the Finance Committee for this week is the question of salary increases for ministers and judges, transfers from item to item in the 1956/57 Budget and the Taxpayers Register.

Other committees which met at least once during the summer recess were the Foreign Affairs and Security, Economic, and Public Service committees.

Burg: Israel Won't Turn Other Check

TEL AVIV, Saturday. — If the Government decided on a particular action it did it in full cognizance of the price that had to be paid, but he was sure that nobody in Israel was advocating turning the other cheek, the Minister of Posts, Dr. Y. Burg, said at the first Friday luncheon this season of the Commercial and Industrial Club.

Dr. Burg said that Israel had to make a strong diplomatic offensive in the West, and that it must continue all preparations for defence while attempting to strengthen the country's economic basis.

Warsaw Claim Recognized

Mr. M. Joelson, legal representative of Miss Sabina Kirschbaum and Mrs. Eugene Halberstadt, two sisters who pleaded in the Supreme Court last Thursday on their behalf that money belonging to their late father, Mr. Zerah Kirschbaum, and used to save two other women in Warsaw in 1943 should be restored to them now.

The two women who were saved with the aid of $3,500 in gold pieces were Mrs. Riva Rahel Mazur and her daughter, now Mrs. Bella Simha, who appeared as defendants in the case (and not as reported on Friday).

A plea for restitution of the money had previously been recognized in the Rabbinical Court, but not executed. In the District Court, Mr. Joelson had pleaded that Jewish law recognizes the injunction that Jews must be aided to escape from the hands of Gentile oppressors, and that therefore the obligation to repay the debt should apply also to the three half-brothers of Mrs. Simha, who had been in Tel Aviv at the time the escape took place.

This plea was rejected, the responsibility for the repayment of the money being recognized only as far as the Mazur mother and daughter were concerned.

Mr. Menashe, lawyer for the respondents, pleaded in return that the transfer of the gold coins on behalf of the Kirschbaum family had been contrary to Polish law at the time, and that plaintiffs were therefore not entitled to the return of their property. It was this claim that was rejected by Justice Olshan, President of the Supreme Court, who thus enabled the heirs to the Kirschbaum estate to reclaim their money.

State Asked To Charge Steinberg

TEL AVIV, Saturday. — The Inspector-General of Police, Mr. Yehoshua Sabar, has asked the State Attorney to institute proceedings against former Police Officer Z. Steinberg, who was recently dismissed from the force.

The Inspector-General has requested that the dismissed officer be charged with conspiring to spread false information about the military government, this being one of three reasons why he was dismissed.

In a letter to the Prime Minister, to whom Steinberg had also written, Mr. Sabar denied that the accused was dismissed because he refused to testify in favour of Deputy Inspector-General Amos Ben-Gurion in the latter's case against "Shurat HaMizrahim."

The Inspector-General stated that the former police officer could have appealed to the High Court if he felt that he had been dismissed unfairly.

seizure of the Suez Canal Company assets was illegal and an act of violence, Britain was prepared to concentrate on adequate guarantees for the users.

The London proposals (for international control) seemed fair and just to both sides and there would be "room for adjustments," he said.

The Anglo-French resolution he presented requested the Council:

• To reaffirm the principle of freedom of navigation in accordance with the Suez Canal Convention.

• To affirm the necessity of safeguarding the rights and guarantees which the users of the Canal enjoyed under the system upon which the Convention was founded — that is to say, the principle of non-interference by any entity having international character.

• To approve the action of the 18 states at the first London conference in putting forward the proposals, which are designed to bring about a peaceful solution of the question in conformity with the principle of non-interference.

• To recommend Egypt to negotiate on the basis of these proposals and thus to co-operate in working out the operation of the Canal.

• To recommend Egypt to co-operate with the Suez Canal Users.

Mr. Pincus expressed concern that Abdul Nasser's nationalization of the Suez Canal might be the first stage of a policy which might lead the world into "fearful disasters." In an attack on Abdul Nasser he declared, "We are entitled to ask whether it is in the interest of the Egyptian people or the boundless expansion of one man's ambitions that is at stake."

Mr. Pincus's strong line was maintained in a French press briefing after the meeting when the spokesman referred to "international robbery and gangsterism" by Egypt.

thing except to issue empty announcements.

Many people had risen up in moral indignation because Israel had failed to set up a "bookkeeping" system in redress of the wrongs done her — and set out to kill one person for every Israeli who was murdered. But Israel would not throw grenades into the homes of children or ambush women and farmers, the only way in which a life could be taken for a life.

Israel had adopted another system: punishing those responsible for the acts of their soldiers. Thus, Israel only attacked military objectives. Every Israeli soldier sent to fight was instructed not to harm civilians. In addition, he was given one supreme instruction: Come back alive.

This was an order that could not always be carried out, despite the fact that Israel had been blessed with excellent soldiers.

Mrs. Meir went on to talk of the work of the Working Mothers Organization. This theme was taken up by Mr. M. Mordecai Ish-Shalom, Acting Mayor; Mr. Moshe Baran, Secretary of the Jerusalem Labour Council; and Mrs. Shoshana Halevi, of the Organization.

The speakers were introduced by Mrs. Dina Ben-Zion, secretary of the Jerusalem branch of the group.

Meir Meets Egyptian, Romanian Immigrants

The Minister for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Golda Meir, discussed the situation of Jews in Egypt with a delegation of the Egyptian Immigrants Association at her Tel Aviv office on Friday.

The delegation was headed by the Chairman of the Association, Judge Yehoshua Levy. The discussion lasted one hour.

The Foreign Minister also received on Friday a group of released Zionist prisoners from Rumania, who have recently reached Israel.

Cairo: Israel Jets Over Old City

A complaint had been submitted to the Mixed Armistice Commission, it was said.

Petah Tikva's Area To Be Enlarged

PETAH TIKVA, Saturday. — The Minister of Interior will issue an order under which the area of this town will include additional industrial sectors and the Bellinson and Gat Rimon quarters, Mayor P. Raabich told the Press yesterday. The additional area totals some 4,000 dunams, bringing a total of 18,000 dunams under municipal jurisdiction.

The Mayor outlined the town's development projects which amounted to over 11 km. Within six weeks the new central bus terminal is to be opened in the north of the town. Some 11,000,000 has been invested in the terminal and, with the setting up of covers over the quays, work was being completed there. New bus lines will be operated in the town, the Mayor said.

Work of a wholesaler's market will be started in two weeks, in which 12,000,000 is to be invested. Within a month a maternity department will be opened in the municipal hospital.

New water scheme would supply sufficient water to all areas within municipal boundaries, the Mayor said, and there would be no need to draw drinking water from the Yarkon River. Between 12,500,000 to 15,000,000 would be invested to improve the sewerage system, the Mayor stated.

Histadrut Building Opening on Hanukka

Jerusalem Post Reporter

Work is going ahead at a rapid pace to finish the main parts of the Histadrut Cultural Building in Jerusalem. The official opening has been set for Hanukka, two months from now.

The gigantic building, standing on the highest spot in Rehovot Ma'acabi, gives an unparalleled view of both the New and the Old City, was "officially" inaugurated yesterday evening by the Working Mothers Organization's annual bazaar.

Following the official opening, on Hanukka, the various offices of the Histadrut, at Rehovot Ma'acabi, in the old Histadrut building near the centre of town, will be moved gradually to the new site. The Z.O.A. House "baseball banquet" tonight.

The two trophies were the Lawson and Z.O.A. House Cups awarded to Tel Gasim and Bolly Kaplan of Moshav Timorim, respectively.

The Ambassador's short speech climaxed the first "Israel Baseball Week." The Ambassador said he was pleased that softball was being taken up with "hard determination and a same spirit of sportsmanship that is the hallmark of the Jewish people."

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. Elmer Ripley, formerly of the Brooklyn Dodgers and now coach of Israel's Olympic Games basketball team, gave first lessons in baseball to about 100 eager local youngsters.

On Friday, Bummy attributed the rescue to the intervention of Providence.

"When the attack started I became a machine and acted by instinct only. After the first shot was fired, I threw the car in reverse and drove at a speed of 40-50 k.p.h. without looking backwards once, my eyes being glued to the enemy in front. I was driving but Providence guided the car."

Dentistry With A Light Touch

ATLANTIC CITY, New Jersey, Saturday (UPI). — A new super-speed dental drill, which is used "like a paint brush with a feather touch," has been described to delegates meeting here for the 97th annual session of the American Dental Association.

Dr. Frederick A. Mayes, a Georgia dentist, said the drill operates at speeds in excess of 150,000 revolutions a minute instead of the usual 6,000 of the ordinary rotary drill. He said the patient often "can't identify the locale of the treatment."

Davidman Wins Third Net Title

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV, Saturday. — Lior Davidman today took his third title in the 26th annual International Tennis Championships when he and Colette Holvoet, the new women's champion, had an exciting 7-5, 6-4 victory over holders Aris Avridan and Edith Cohen-Mintz in the mixed doubles final held over from last Saturday.

The 19-year-old soldier had already won the men's singles and doubles, the latter in partnership with Avridan. This was Davidman's first title success in either the spring or autumn international championships, major meets of the year.

The mixed final produced some of the best tennis of the tournament in a long match of fluctuating fortunes, in which Avridan and Cohen-Mintz, after lagging 3-5 in the tense final set, were actually ahead 6-5.

There were some glorious rallies and plenty of dingsong duels at the net with Mrs. Cohen-Mintz probably the steadiest player of the four, though ending on the losing side.

Dr. S. Lifshitz, Chairman of the Lawn Tennis Association, and Mr. A. Felger, President of the Macabi tennis section presented the prizes to the winners and runners-up.

J'lem Betar Beats Rehovot Ma'acabi, 5-2

Jerusalem Betar in their usual pre-season form trounced Rehovot Ma'acabi 5-2 before a crowd of several thousand fans in the Y.M.C.A. stadium yesterday. The game was on a rather low technical standard, both sides playing more like schoolboys than League A teams.

Both sides missed numerous chances in the first half, the only goal going to the home side. Early in the second half Betar added a second goal but the visitors reduced the arrears a few minutes later.

Despite pressure by the Macabi forwards Betar scored two more runaway goals before the visitors scored again from what looked very much an off-side position. Just before the final whistle Betar scored a fifth marker. There was practically no refereeing.

EMBASSIES. — Iraq and Saudi Arabia yesterday raised their diplomatic representations to embassy level, following a decision adopted by King Faisal of Iraq and King Saud of Saudi Arabia at their meeting in Damman last month, according to an official communique in Baghdad.
